I told the psychologist about Rafael, about the darkness and the shadows, but he didn't believe me. He said that all these visions weren't real and that my brain was making everything up to overcome the accident... but he is wrong, I know that was real.

In the afternoon María came to say hello. I am so happy! She said that she had a gift for me!! And that she would send it to me this week, on my birthday. I think I know what it is. I am so excited!! María has been very nice with me, since the very first time when we met, she wrote an article about me for her magazine. This was the first time that someone understood what I was feeling. She is super nice with me. I am so happy that I have a friend like her!

Sometimes, I wake up at night sweating, scared and paralyzed sleeping on my left side; my body is totally immobilised but my eyes are open; I can feel a presence behind me, it is not friendly and scares me; it gets closer to my back, I try to stand up but I can't; I try a second time but I can't either; that presence is just a few centimetres from my back, I can feel its weight on my mattress; I make a big effort to move my arm but I am unnable to do it; I try to shout loud and ask for help but my mouth doesn't want to open up; I strongly close my eyes and try to move one more time; I am almost praying for this thing to leave when suddenly, my body responses; I jump off the bed behind the mattress and look at the other side...
But there is absolutely nothing, nobody is there. It's always the same, it's terrifying. The psychologist told me that this happens when the brain wakes up earlier than your body, that my visions are just visions... But I think they are something else. I had the same feeling when I met Rafael, but he is not here to protect me. Here I am on my own.

I dreamt about that hatman again, he was staring at me, smiling as usual. I am wondering why he keeps coming, he seems to be awaiting something. Last time I tried to find it out and I talked to him, I asked him why he was there, but he didn't answer. He just smiled in silence.

My favourite radio program is broadcasting today, It is called 'The wind rose'. I am wondering what they are going to talk about this time. My friends are scared of these paranormal topics, but I am not, there is nothing to be afraid of... I think.
